

Influencing Analyst Relations Worldwide

This foundation program outlines the impact of analysts, how they work and how to organize analyst relations outreach. Influencing the influencers from analyst firms from around the world is no simple task. Scheduling a meeting is the easy part: shaping the analyst opinions of your company and its products and services takes time and focus.

Benefits:

By understanding the core information needs of these leading market influencers, analyst relations' managers and company executives are in a better position to influence opinions and shape market views. Participants will obtain insider knowledge to develop common practices across AR, IR and PR and learn to measure the influencers' words to gauge their true perception of your company. In the future, participants can then use that knowledge to develop strategies and tactics that change the way AR influencers think about your company.

INFLUENCING ANALYST RELATIONS WORLDWIDE

Content:

The first part of the course defines who analysts are, what they do, why they influence high technology markets and how analyst relations programs can be organized. The second part of the program focuses on advanced techniques for selecting and prioritizing individual analysts and for briefing them. The course includes methods for reviewing and developing appropriate, effective briefing materials and emphasizes the ten key rules for preparing spokespeople.

The full-day seminar is an intensive course aimed at professionals looking for a strong foundation in analyst relations. While not focussed on those preparing for the IIAR's certification process, the session covers many of the topics covered by the IIAR's study guide.

The event includes refreshments and a light lunch. To assist continuing professional development, the course also includes:

- ▶ Optional entry in the IIAR's certification test (normally 100 pounds), which you can sit any time in the following year
- ▶ One year's membership to the IIAR (normally 200 pounds)
- ▶ Membership of the Analyst Relations Forum on LinkedIn

- ▶ 'Win Them Over', Efreem Mallach's classic work on Analyst Relations
- ▶ 'Industry Analyst Relations', Duncan Chapple and Ralf Leinemann's best-seller
- ▶ Two follow-up webinars with course tutor Duncan Chapple.

Materials:

- ▶ 'Industry Analyst Relations' by Duncan Chapple and Ralf Leinemann
- ▶ Presentation packet summarizing key learning objectives of the seminar
- ▶ Optional: webinar delivery specifically formatted for the subject content

Certification:

Upon completion of this course, you will have demonstrated the qualification needed to earn a certificate for continuing professional development.

Fee: £1,000

Testimonials:

Duncan was a pleasure to consult with - a visionary and strategic thinker who articulates complex situations with clarity and simplicity. His passion for customer / community building and competitive analysis sets him apart in a crowded space. He is also a recognised thought leader across the analyst relations and marketing communities, particularly in the SE of England

- Dan Purvis

Duncan has an excellent aptitude for getting to the heart of the matter fast. Whether it's competitive analysis, market research, analyst relations or strategic advice, he consistently delivers above expectations. A pleasure to work with.

- Paul Denhem

I've known Duncan for many years, he is an expert in the area of Industry Analyst Relations and a fantastic person to work with on both professional and personal levels. he is dedicated to excellent customer service - any concern or idea I bring to the table he takes it on and addresses quickly and efficiently. I recently hired Duncan to replace another provider and am very happy with the move - better value and better data.

- Joanna Gluzman-Laukkanen

Biography:

Duncan Chapple researches market influence and technology innovation. He leads global influencer market research at Kea Company. Duncan helps high-growth companies to use relationships to influence customers, channel partners and third-party sales recommenders like analysts, advisors and consultants.
